over a cup of coffee in a relaxed ambience or wish to chill with the fellow employees—the lounge at Panasonic office would be the perfect choice for you. The design and the entire set up are alluring and enhance the beauty of the office.

Smart technology: A smart office starts with smart technology that makes sense for your office needs. Whether it's an all-in-one workstation, thermostats, virtual reality cameras, virtual reality speakers to serve as an in-office hub; or a sleek notebook you can take on the plane, or grab on the way to that important new business presentation, the right technology is key.

For instance, software development firm Zoho concentrates on creating software to solve all kinds of business problems helping one to effectively create, communicate and collaborate, all with one umbrella software. As a result, over the past decade, the Zoho suite has emerged to be a leader in the cloud and on your devices, that are in use across multiple offices.

On the other hand, the Panasonic Toughbook is another device that is changing the face of modern offices today. With unrivalled durability, world-class connectivity, specialist form factors and integrated functionality such as GPS, field cameras, barcode readers and Bluetooth, they're built to perform where other technology fails. And that's where they make all the difference. Across the full range of industries and sectors, Toughbook, equipped with Intel® Core™ i5 vPro™ processor, is changing the way organisations operate. From hospital wards to underground power plants, they're giving mobile professionals access to data and applications in places where it was never before possible, allowing businesses to go further.

Smart infrastructure: A smart office calls for smart infrastructural facilities. Think heavy duty energy-efficient ACs and top of the line LED TVs. Intec brings all of that to the smart office. Intec is a consumer durable company, which has a presence in major markets and is expanding nationally as well. The brand offers a range of superior heavy-duty ACs and a smart range of LED TVs, making it an ideal choice for smart offices seeking energy efficiency and hyper connectivity.

Armed with an extensive technical knowledge and vast experience of more than 27 years, Intec Group's air conditioner range includes window, split, floor standing and cassette air conditioners with premium, elegant design and cutting edge technology. Intec Group, one of the foremost OEM in white goods and home appliances for branded multinationals as well as for big Indian companies since 1989, unveiled its own complete range of residential and commercial Intec brand of air conditioners in 2013. Intensive research has been the backbone of the Intec air conditioners that use high efficient thread copper wire pipes. It is devised with 6 tiered anti-rusting technologies enabling the outdoor units to withstand rusting for long years. Another significant feature is Golden Fin technology that helps to clean water on the surface of the evaporator leaving no options for mould, bacteria and odorous matter further helping to improve the atmospheric quality of the room.

Intec's Smart LED Televisions range makes for an immersive viewing experience giving viewers the option to choose from an array of sizes ranging from 22" to 65" in HD, FHD, Smart, UHD and 4K variants.

On the other hand, making sure employee spaces are comfortable and conducive to productivity is perhaps most important. Consider the size and shape of desks; chairs that offer extra support; and walls that offer privacy without (literally) closing off opportunities for collaboration and conversation. As a result, acquiring the right, smart furniture is crucial. Godrej Interio's range of office furniture perfectly fits in with the needs of the modern office veered towards becoming more homelike – open and comfortable.

For instance, its Smart line comprises sleek straight lines and contemporary design to enhance your office and facilitate easy communication. A sturdy and rigid blend of low height workstations and full height partitions, Smart withstands pressure with remarkable stability and performs its best at all times.

Development of business centres and the rise of the virtual office

The concept of business centres housing smart offices have also evolved tremendously in metropolitan cities over the period of time. Business centres have come to be an umbrella term that includes serviced offices, virtual offices,
